FOR RELEASE: March 9, 1999

PRESS ADVISORY

Paul to be featured guest on C-SPAN 'Washington Journal' will host Rep. Paul for hour-long program

WASHINGTON, DC -- US Rep. Ron Paul (R, TX) will be a featured guest Wednesday morning, March 10, on the popular "Washington Journal" public affairs program on the C-SPAN network. The live, hour-long segment featuring Rep. Paul will be on the air beginning at approximately 7:30 am (EST). In addition to discussing current events of interest to Rep. Paul, the program includes calls from viewers around the nation. Rep. Paul will likely be discussing education and labor issues, the situation in Iraq, and proposed regulations that would require banks to invade the privacy of their customers. The C-SPAN network, including "Washington Journal," is available on most cable systems. In addition, it can be viewed live on the Internet (http://www.c-span.org/).