

Congressman Ron Paul is pleased to collaborate with the community of Galveston for the 7th Annual Oceans of Opportunities Job Fair. The event is free of charge for both job seekers and employers, but employers must register online at www.wrksolutions.com/oceans.html

Last year, 66 employers and more than 1,500 job seekers participated. Healthcare, service, administration and several other fields were represented from companies in the Greater Houston area, Galveston and beyond.

Congressman Paul is enthusiastic about the opportunity to help bring employers and job seekers together.

According to the U.S. Department of Labor, Galveston ranks with the rest of the United States with an 8.5 percent unemployment rate. The state of Texas has a 7.8 percent rate of unemployment.

“Our goal is to help bridge the gap and bring unemployment down,” Paul said.

Workforce Solutions will provide resume assistance and helpful hints for job seekers at the job fair. All job seekers should dress professionally and bring copies of their up-to-date resume.

The Oceans of Opportunities Job Fair is organized jointly by Congressman Ron Paul, the City of Galveston, the Galveston Chamber of Commerce, the Galveston Economic Development Partnership, UTMB Health and Workforce Solutions.

Job seekers are encouraged to stop by any area Workforce Solutions office for resume assistance and job counseling prior to the job fair. Call 1-888-469-5627 or log onto www.wrksolutions.com for more information. Employers should register at
